Passing this single exam does not signify completion of the Ubuntu certification. Certification is awarded after passing all required exams for the LPI level 1 certification (LPI 101 and LPI 102) as well. After passing the required exams, you will receive a printed certificate indicating that you hold the designated certification level.

Employers and others considering the value of professional certification are encouraged to review the LPI website or to contact LPI for more information. LPI recommends that achievement of professional certification be considered as one of many factors in evaluating the competency of an individual. Consideration should be given to the amount of time that has passed since the candidate completed an exam or certification in order to assess the currency of a candidate's skills.
